Explanation

Supernetting, also called Classless Inter-Domain Routing (CIDR), is a way to aggregate multiple Internet addresses of the same class. Using supernetting, the network address 209.60.128.0/24 and an adjacent address 209.60.129.0/24 can be merged into 209.60.128.0/23. The "23" at the end of the address says that the first 23 bits are the network part of the address, leaving the remaining nine bits for specific host addresses
