NEW QUESTION: 1

You created a new zpool. Now you need to migrate the existing ZFS file system from pool1/prod to pool2/prod.

You have these requirements:

1. Users must have access to the data during the migration, so you cannot shutdown the file system while the migration takes place.
2. Because you want to copy the data as quickly as possible, you need to increase the server resources devoted to the ZFS migration.

Which method would you use to modify the ZFS shadow migration daemon defaults to increase the concurrency and overall speed of migration?

- A. Use the `-o volblocksize=option` with the `zfs create` command and increase the value of the default .
- B. `Svccfg-s filesystem/zfs: default setprop config_params/shadow_threads = integer: 16 end svcadm refresh filesystem/zfs:default`
- C. Specify the `-b` option with the `zfs create` command and increase the value of
- D. `Svccfg-s filesystem/shadowd:default setprop config_params/shadow_threads=integer: 16 end svcadm refresh filesystem/shadowd: default`

Answer: D

Explanation:

`shadowd` is a daemon that provides background worker threads to migrate data for a shadow migration. A shadow migration gradually moves data from a source file system into a new "shadow" file system. Users can access and change their data within the shadow file system while migration is occurring. The `shadowd` service is managed by the service management facility, `smf(5)`. Administrative actions on this service, such as enabling, disabling, or requesting restart, can be performed using `svcadm(1M)`. The service's status can be queried using the `svcs(1)` command.

The `svccfg(1M)` command can be used to manage the following parameter related to `shadowd`:

config_params/shadow_threads

Note: Oracle Solaris 11: In this release, you can migrate data from an old file system to a new file system while simultaneously allowing access and modification of the new file system during the migration process.

Setting the shadow property on a new ZFS file system triggers the migration of the older data. The shadow property can be set to migrate data from the local system or a remote system with either of the following values:

file:///path nfs://host:path
