Step 1: From Azure IoT hub, create an IoT Edge device
In the Azure Cloud Shell, enter the following command to create a device named myEdgeDevice in your hub.

```
az iot hub device-identity create --device-id myEdgeDevice --edge-enabled --hub-name {hub_name}

View the connection string for your device, which links your physical device with its identity in IoT Hub. Copy the value of the connectionString key from the JSON output and save it. This value is the device connection string. You'll use this connection string to configure the IoT Edge runtime in the step 3.

Step 2: From an elevated PowerShell prompt, run the Deploy-IoTEdge cmdlet.

Install the Azure IoT Edge runtime on your IoT Edge device.

Run PowerShell as an administrator.

Run the Deploy-IoTEdge command, which performs the following tasks:

- Checks that your Windows machine is on a supported version.
- Turns on the containers feature.
- Downloads the moby engine and the IoT Edge runtime.

Step 3: From an elevated PowerShell prompt, run the Initialize-IoTEdge cmdlet Step 4: Enter the IoT Edge device connection string.

Configure the IoT Edge device with a device connection string.

Definition of an SPN

An SPN is the name by which a client uniquely identifies an instance of a service. If you install multiple instances of a service on computers throughout a forest, each service instance must have its own SPN. A particular service instance can have multiple SPNs if there are multiple names that clients might use for authentication. For example, an SPN always includes the name of the host computer on which the service instance is running. Therefore, a service instance might register an SPN for each name or alias of its host.

The HTTP service class

The HTTP service class differs from the HTTP protocol. Both the HTTP protocol and the HTTPS protocol use the HTTP service class. The service class is the string that identifies the general class of service.

For example, the command may resemble the following command:

```
setspn -S HTTP/iis6server1.mydomain.com mydomain\appPool1
