NEW QUESTION: 1

A user has set the IAM policy where it denies all requests if a request is not from IP 10.10.10.1/32. The other policy says allow all requests between 5 PM to 7 PM. What will happen when a user is requesting access from IP 55.109.10.12/32 at 6 PM?

- A. It will deny access
- B. It is not possible to set a policy based on the time or IP
- C. It will allow access
- D. IAM will throw an error for policy conflict

Answer: A

Explanation:

When a request is made, the AWS IAM policy decides whether a given request should be allowed or denied. The evaluation logic follows these rules:

By default, all requests are denied. (In general, requests made using the account credentials for resources in the account are always allowed.)

An explicit allow policy overrides this default.

An explicit deny policy overrides any allows.

In this case since there are explicit deny and explicit allow statements. Thus, the request will be denied since deny overrides allow.

NEW QUESTION: 2

At XYZ Corp, multiple ClaimUnit sub case types are spun off from a parent Claim case. User retrieve ClaimUnit assignment using Get Next Work based on the average time to resolve each sub case type. Assignments associated with sub case types that take longer to resolve on average should be retrieve first. The average time to resolve sub case types will change over time. How do you design the solution to handle this requirement?

- A. Implement a GetNextWork solution based on case deadline and ClaimUnit type. Specialize the Server Level Rule By ClaimUnit case type.
- B. Store the average time of complete sub case types in a table. Customize GetNextWork list view by joining to this table and use this for ordering the results.
- C. Increase subcase urgency based on Claim unit type prior to the workbasket assignment. Specialize the service Level Rule by ClaimUnit case type.
- D. When the SLA's goal is reached, have an escalation Activity adjust the claim urgency in proportion to the average time to resolve ClaimUnit cases.

Answer: C
