NEW QUESTION: 1

You are configuring network connections to your database instance.

What does each network group represent?

- A. It is used to manage the connections between your external application servers (application servers that you currently use in your business environment) and your DBaaS instances.
- B. It is used to define network connections to the Pluggable Databases (PDBs) within a Container Database.
- C. It is used to allow unrestricted communication among some of your DBaaS instances by using a set of defined policies and access rules.

D. It is used to define load balancing and failover configurations between RAC database instances.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Network groups provide a method for VMs to be grouped together for communications and firewall rules.

You can define network groups to allow VMs within a group to communicate with each other, while also preventing those VMs from communicating outside the group.

Note:

Access rule. Access rules define the permitted paths of communication for VMs that are within a network group. You can define an access rule to enable a specific path of communication between two network groups, or between a network group and a specified list of IP addresses.
