NEW QUESTION: 1

The security team has informed the Integration Bus developers that they need to start using SSL when using the web user interface. Administration security is still disabled. What does the developer need to do to now access the web user interface?
A. Setup a keystore on the queue manager, import the private key and then change the URL used to the new port being used by HTTPS.

B. Have the administrator use the `mqswebuseradmin` command to create a new web user and then change the URL used to the new port being used by HTTPS.

C. Turn on administration security, have the administrator use the `mqswebuseradmin` command to create a new web user and then change the URL used to the new port being used by HTTPS.

D. Change the URL used to the new port being used by HTTPS.

Answer: A

Explanation:

To enable access to broker resources through the web user interface, configure the IBM Integration Bus web user interface server.

If you are using HTTPS, run the following command:

mqsichangeproperties brokerName
```

```
-b webadmin -o HTTPSConnector -n port,keystoreFile,keystorePass
-v portValue,fileName,password

- brokerName is the name of your broker.

- portValue is the HTTPS port value that you want to use for the web user interface.

- fileName is your keystore file.

- password is the password for the keystore file.
